Use Time Paradox duplicates of yourself to help solve puzzles and circumvent test chambers. Be careful not to approximate any of your previous selves.. Damn these tentacles!. While this game looks great visually and has some decent puzzles, it's hard to recommend due to the writing.. The crude and vulgar dialogue and jokes used throughout the game are rather grating, and the conversations can't be skipped or turned off. It's unfortunate, as I liked some of the puzzles and may have played further than the first "world" if it weren't for the fact that I didn't want to read through any more grade-school level humor. (and I'm not easily offended). Also, there are a few puzzles where the solution won't present itself without randomly doing things (like the classic point-and-click games).

If you can deal with the writing, I would recommend the game as most of the puzzles were fun. But for me personally, the characters and dialogue are far too annoying to continue any further.. What the F is even going on? I don't use the F internet for cheats/advice/guides EVER and I constantly feel like I'm on Fing drugs on this game... and I do drugs... and shrooms... and.... Way too short. And I mean really short. Takes you 1 hour to solve. Good for under $5, but that it. Too easy too. Save your money for Talos Principle or Portals for good puzzle type games. I'd skip this one if I could choose again.. Easily one of the best Tower defence games there is (and theres a shameful lack of good tower defence games)

If u like TD games this is simply a must have. idk i couldn't even get past the name selecting screen. (couldn't enter the name). I apologize for not writing a review for this. I've had this for about a year, and it's the closest thing you'll have to a controllable dream. Music is absolutely amazing, and it changes with your flight and speed. Favourite activity was to just hurl around asteroids, but there's a lot more you can do. Flying is fun, and every object in the game has different physics to them. There's a demo, or free version, also, so try it out.
